1. The China New Democratic Youth Corps (2450/3046/0031/5030/7230/1628/0957) is a new mame, given by MAO Tse-tung in 1947 and approved by the authorities of the Communist Party, for the defunct Communist Youth Vanguard Corps (0364/3934/0031/5030/1421/1628/0341/6912/0957). Officers since 1947 are:

Honorary chairman, JEN Pi-shih, deceased. Honorary secretary, LIAO Chieng-chih (1675/2110/1807). General secretary, FENG Wen-pin (7458/2429/1755). Assistant secretary, CHIANG Nan-hsiang (5592/0589/5046).

- 2. The Corps Central Committee (0022/1135/0957/1201/2585) has a general secretary and an assistant secretary, and is made up of an Organization Department, Propaganda Department, and Masses Movement Department (5028/6663/6752). Under the Corps Central Committee is a working committee for each administrative area; working committees for the provinces function under the area working committees. The chain of command is then down through working committees at the special administrative area, hsien, district, and hsiang levels. At the hsiang level these committees are termed rural branch organizations. A branch organization may also be established in factories. Three branch organizations may form a corps committee under the direction of the local corps committee.
- 3. Through the Youth Corps the Communists control the youth of the country, and all its activities are directed by the Party. In villages the most important function of the Corps is the assignment of duties, such as supervision of labor
